THE WELSH PRIZE SINGERS.

Only a small audience greeted the Welsh Prize Singers at Tomlinson Hall last night, which was a surprise, considering the splendid impression they made on the occasion of their concert here in March. The company was the same as on its former visit, there being eight vocalists, as well as an accompanist, Mr. Walter T. Barker, the harp player. Mr. Barker gave two harp solos which were received with great favor. He is certainly a player of rare ability upon that instrument. He responded to a warm encore on each number. The vocal selections were also well received. The beauty about the singing of these singers is the freshness of their voices. All of the eight voices are untrained, and a majority of them are working men at their home in Cardiff, Wales. Miss Mary Davies, the soprano, has a strong voice, and yet it is as pure as that of a girl of fourteen. Her sister, the youngest one in the company, has a good alto voice, and a solo by her was warmly applauded. Mr. Reddick, whose tenor voice pleased every one so much, is a miner in the Welsh mines, but he did not look like it in his dress suit last evening and he certainly did not sing like it. The company will sail for their rehearsal at once, but may return next winter. They have met with only fair success in this country.

NOTES.

The McGibney family will give three more of their popular concerts, at the Grand-to-night, to-morrow matinee and to-morrow night. They give very interesting entertainments.

"The Night Watch," which was seen for the first time, at the Museum, yesterday, proved to be an interesting and exciting play, and was well presented by the Higgins & Kane company. It will be repeated at both performances to-day and to-morrow.

Fred W. Wicle, manager of the military drama, "The Drummer Boy of Shiloh," is in the city. He will begin rehearsal at once and will play on at the Grand Opera-house, during the week beginning May 21, for the benefit of the Sons of Veterans.

An Orphan Asylum Excursion.
The Germans of the city are making preparations for their annual excursion to Cincinnati, Sunday, on the occasion of the yearly celebration by the German-American asylum of that city. Three trains will be run, one Saturday afternoon, one Saturday evening, and one Sunday morning at 4 o'clock.

TRIAL OF THE CONSPIRATORS

Mr. Buskirk Completes His Argument and Court Adjourns Until Tuesday.

Judge Woods Is Suffering from a Sore Throat—The Order of Adjournment Causes a Wild Ramor—Minor Cases.

The conspiracy trial was continued in the federal court yesterday morning. Mr. Buskirk resumed his argument for the defense. He said that he would not discuss the question of jurisdiction, as that was a matter settled by the court itself. If there was any conspiracy proved in the trial, it was a conspiracy to elect a criminal judge, and therefore the crime was not one which really came under a violation of United States laws, but of the State. He rested his judgment in this case on this point—that a conspiracy was formed, if formed at all, to commit a crime against the State, and not against the United States. No claim had been urged by the prosecution that there was any purpose to change the tally-sheets with reference to Congressmen. The question for the jury to consider was the evidence and the application of the law to it. In this court the judge gave the law and reviewed the evidence, but the jury had a right to form its own judgment in the matter after hearing it. The evidence, he admitted, showed that there had been a change in tally-sheets, but this of itself does not prove a conspiracy. Mr. Buskirk then commented on Perkins's testimony. He said Perkins confessed that he is guilty of forgery and crime, that he is a professional bondman, and the district attorney admits that his evidence is good only where corroborated. Continuing, he pointed out what he considered weaknesses in Perkins's testimony, and said that the only conspiracy that he could see was to convict the defendants. Mr. Buskirk then reviewed the evidence of the case where it was corroborative of Perkins. He charged Judge Claypool with being actuated in this prosecution by malice and spite against the defense because they had not supported him in his political ambitions, saying that he would never again have such an opportunity to vent his spleen as in this case.

Mr. Buskirk, continuing, said that the case was one that must rest on Perkins's testimony, and the fact that tally-sheets had been changed. He could not see a bit of evidence to prove anything like conspiracy on the part of defendants. Discussing the changing of tally-sheets which he attributed to Perkins, he spoke at some length on the motives which Perkins would have in doing so, charging that he did it for the purpose of electing Ayres so that the forfeiture of the Anderson Van Slack bonds might be set aside. He then referred to the good characters which the defendants have always sustained, said that they were honest men and that honest men did not do such crimes as the one charged. Perkins was the only man mean enough to do it. Perkins's testimony was contradicted not only by all the defendants but also by such men as Daniel Burton, Captain Many Smith Myers, Dan Lemon, D. N. Berg, Tom O'Neill and others. The evidence of the eight defendants and twelve outside contradicted Perkins at some point and still the prosecution asked for conviction on his evidence.

Mr. Buskirk made what could be made out of his side of the case. His main points were that there was no ground for charge of conspiracy to violate the United States laws, that Perkins's testimony upheld the whole prosecution and that it was unworthy of belief. Mr. Buskirk also devoted a considerable part of his speech to Mr. Sullivan's defense, the prosecution undoubtedly having the strongest case against him.

At the conclusion of Mr. Buskirk's speech Judge Woods announced that he was suffering from a severe cold and that it would be impossible for him to deliver his charge to the jury today as he had done. He therefore adjourned the court until next Tuesday, having consulted the counsel on each side. As the argument is stopped right in the middle, he thought it fair to both sides. The jurors after a short admonition as to how to conduct themselves, were allowed to separate and to go to their homes. The court had no sooner adjourned than a rumor spread on the street that a telegram had been received here announcing that the decision of the Supreme Court had been handed down reversing the decision of the lower court, and hence the prosecution against defendants here had been ordered stopped. There was no truth, however, in the report, as nothing at all had been received from Washington regarding the case. The decision will not be given until next Monday. The story doubtless arose out of Judge Woods's adjournment of the present case.

An Ice Company's Difficulties.

The affairs of the Fall Creek Ice Company are in court for adjustment. A year ago a receiver was appointed for it, but Henry E. Gary, the principal stockholder, was not satisfied with the way the business was being settled up, and is now attempting to recover from the other members of the company money to which he claims he is entitled. He charges that the partners drew out money belonging to the firm and appropriated it to their own use, and that a considerable sum of money lost in a bank failure was charged to the firm when in reality it belonged to one of the individuals. The case will consume several days.

She Will Get Her Change.

The suit of Mrs. Sophia Greenwald against William Tipton, to recover $94 which was stolen from her by a young man in Tipton's employ, to whom she gave a $100 bill to change, was concluded in Judge Taylor's court yesterday morning, and the jury, after being out ten minutes, returned a verdict for Mrs. Greenwald for $94.50. The case was originally tried before Judge Judkins, who gave the plaintiff a verdict for $93. The police have made an effort to find the young collector who stole the money, but have never found any trace of him.

Talking to the Jury.

The trial of John Stall, for arson, is nearing an end. The evidence concluded yesterday morning with some testimony in rebuttal by the State, and the argument began in the afternoon. Geo. A. Adams, of Martinsville, who is representing the insurance company, made a strong speech for conviction, and was followed by Charles Smith for the defendant. John Duncan and Mr. Mitchell will close the arguments this afternoon. The State's attorneys think they have made a much stronger case than they did before when the jury disagreed.

Pay for Board Demanded.

There is a trial in Judge Walker's court-room, in which it is claimed that several years ago Mr. Alphons Perry and his wife disagreed. Perry went to California, and the wife returned to the home of Roger Parry, who had adopted her. She remained there until a short time ago, when the husband returned from the West and secured a divorce. Roger Parry has now brought suit against the husband for pay for maintaining his wife during all the time he was away. The amount demanded is over $1,000.

Notes from the Courts.

Squire Walpole yesterday fined James Sullivan $10 and costs for selling liquor on Sunday.

The Wren damage suit against the city is progressing slowly. The evidence for the plaintiff will be consumed in submitting the city's side of the case.

The suit to set aside the will of the late Catherine Bobbs will be called for trial in the Circuit Court next week. Considerable interest will center in it, from the fact that the amount involved is large, and because all the parties to the suit are distinguished persons. Several of the Camerons and McVeighs of Pennsylvania will be here as witnesses.

The Court Record.

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS.
12335. E. & T. H. Railroad Company vs. Wm. Guyton, Gibson, C. G. Affirmed. Mitchell, C. J.—1. When a railroad company has in its employ an incompetent conductor, without exercising reasonable care in respect to his qualifications, and a brakeman is injured through the incompetency of such conductor, the railroad company is liable. 2. Damages may be recovered by such brakeman, not only for permanent injuries sustained, but for physical pain and mental suffering occasioned by the injury and endured while performing an act of courageous duty. Evidence of such act is admissible for the purpose of fixing the amount of his compensation. 3. It is rare that it is proper for the court to instruct the jury as a matter of law whether or not a certain policy, as applied to the management of a particular business, is wise or unwise.

12379. John W. Kermode vs. George W. Gibson. Boone C. C. Affirmed. Hawk, J.—This court will not consider errors assigned which are caused by a new trial but not by the original trial.

12388. George Spurgeon vs. Granville T.

Smith et al. Jefferson C. C. Affirmed. Elliott, J.—1. When a creditor releases the principal part of the debt, knowing that the other makers of the notes are sureties, he thereby releases them. The act of the creditor in releasing the money tendered him by the principal debtor after the note had been released, the sureties. 2. When the money is actually produced, and an unconditional offer is made to pay it at once to the creditor, and he refuses to accept it, the sureties are discharged. When the money is actually produced, and the creditor does not object to the tender, but requests the debtor to retain the money, he cannot subsequently insist that the tender was insufficient.

TO COMPLETE THE TICKET.

Conventions to Select Senatorial, Representative and Judicial Tickets.

Three Democratic conventions will meet here to-morrow. One, to select a candidate for the House of Representatives from Marion, Hancock and Shelby counties, will meet at 10 o'clock in the morning. At noon the joint senatorial convention for the same counties, to select a candidate for Senator, will meet, and after that the judicial convention, to nominate candidates for circuit judge and prosecutor for the fourteenth judicial circuit, composed of Marion and Hendricks counties, will come together at 2 o'clock. The place of meeting will be the Circuit Court room.

The Marion county nomination, to be held in the court at 2 o'clock to-day, and in the city at 7:30 o'clock this evening, delegates to the three conventions, and also to the district convention to nominate a Congressman, will be selected. The last-named convention will meet in this city two weeks from to-morrow.

The conventions which will nominate a candidate for joint Senator, and a joint Representative, are not exciting a great deal of interest. The first-mentioned will probably be the more interesting of the two, as there are quite a number of candidates, who have been actively working for the nomination. Those who have announced themselves are Heyden S. Bigham, Daniel Foley and Richard O. Johnson, of Indianapolis; James H. Crawford, of Greenwood; Charles Majors, of Shelbyville. Marion county claims the right to name the candidate, but as her delegation will be divided among the three men, the city seems probable that either New or Majors will be the nominee. Daniel Foley thinks he is entitled to the nomination from the fact that he was at first put on the Marion county legislative ticket, but declined because he had been promised the nomination for joint Senator. Both Johnson and Bigham have a claim on the party because of services rendered in past campaigns.

For joint Representative there is but one avowed candidate now in the field, and that is James B. Curtis. There will likely be some opposition to him in the convention, but as he already has the almost unanimous support of the Hancock and Shelby county delegations, he will likely receive the nomination without much of a fight. Until recently it appeared that the judicial convention would be a very tame affair, as it seemed to be generally understood that there would be no opposition to James L. Mitchell for prosecutor and Thomas L. Sullivan for judge. But the threat of ex-Judge Pierce, Norton, later in the field as a candidate for prosecutor has materially changed the situation. Norton did not announce his candidacy until a few days ago, and it looked very much as if he will go into the convention with as much, if not more strength than Mitchell. The friends of Mitchell are very sore over the way they have been served in the matter, and are already threatening to desert Norton in case he is nominated. The feature of the primaries to-night will be the fight between the friends of Mitchell and Norton.

Convention to Reconcile.

Chairman Harding, of the Republican county committee has issued a call for the reconvening of the county convention to nominate a legislative ticket. It will meet in Tomlinson Hall, on the 26th day of May, 1888, at 1 o'clock P. M. and nominate two candidates for the State Senate and five Representatives for the Legislature of the State Legislature. The delegates to the convention will receive their credentials from the secretary of the county committee.

ASPHALT FOR WASHINGTON STREET.

A Meeting of Council Committee to Consider the Bids—Colonel Dudley's Opinion.

The committee on contracts and streets and alleys will meet this afternoon to consider the bids submitted to the Council for the paving of Washington street with asphalt. The meeting will be public, and Washington street proper holders have been invited to be present if they so desire. It will not be for the purpose of letting the contract, but for looking into the merits of the three propositions.

Colonel Dudley's opinion yesterday in regard to the improvement: "I venture the prediction that within five years, if you lay an asphalt pavement in Washington street this summer, Indianapolis will have fifty miles of that kind of street down. In Washington both the Vulcan and the pure Trinidad asphalt pavements are in use. On K. street a Vulcanite pavement has been down for four years without requiring the slightest repairs. On another street an asphalt pavement that has been in use four years is good, but water runs in spots on it after rain, and this has a tendency to rot the pavement. An important thing with any pavement is to get the foundation substantial."

Building Permits.

The following building permits were issued yesterday: B. F. McFarland, frame cottage, at No. 142 Lexington avenue, $700; Frederick Bond, improvements, at No. 71 Summit street, $350; Charles J. Maury, improvements, at No. 402 North East street, $300; heirs of Thomas Johnson, improvements to block, at No. 4 West Washington street, $3,000; C. H. Schrader, frame cottage, at No. 317 Park avenue, $2,000; Daniel McBride, double frame cottage, No. 133 Newmarket street, $1,100; E. P. Dumas, improvements, at No. 423 North California street, $300; Mary Watta, frame cottage, southwest corner Chestnut and Hanway streets, $400.

A Beautiful Floral Emblem.

A magnificent floral emblem was sent to Greenestreet by Judge John A. Holman as a tribute to the late John R. Gordon. The foundation represents a field, and is made of white carnations and roses, with a border of jessamine and fine green. About the field are sprays of hills of the valley, and Marchal Niel roses, pressed with the exquisite blossoms. A design is about three and a half feet long by one and a half broad, and the ends are round. Mr. Wren formed the design after Judge Holman had given him the idea.

The Woman's Mission Circle of the First Baptist Church will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock, with Mrs. J. M. Crandall, 894 North Illinois street. Papers will be read by Miss Holloway and Mrs. Robert Egan.

Mrs. T. A. Goodwin, who has been seven weeks at Lake Linden, nursing her daughter, Mrs. Platts, returned last Tuesday, bringing her daughter with her, who, though yet quite feeble, has sufficiently recovered to travel.

An elaborate production of Mrs. Jarley's wax-works will be given this evening at the First Presbyterian Church. This will be supplemented by an original and novel play, "Frank Richards and Mr. Harry Porter, and a series of tableaux. The entertainment is in charge of the ladies of the church, assisted by well-known talent.

The yellow tea given by the ladies of the Free Kindergarten and Children's Aid Society yesterday afternoon was a very successful affair. Mrs. W. D. Cooper's residence, on College avenue, was well chosen for the entertainment, as it is spacious and well arranged. The large parlors and sitting-room were decorated with flowers. A table of pretty fancy work was an attractive spot, and another of home-made candy was surrounded with purchasers. The dining-room was the daintiest and prettiest place imaginable. The menu was light and appetizing, and consisted of white and purple lilacs, and in the center of each was a candelabra. Small tables seating four were set with the finest of embroidered linens, each was lighted with a yellow candle, and the finger-bowls held yellow flowers. The menu included salad, cheese, strawberries, cream and cake, beautifully served on exquisite china. The favors were contrived so that the ladies of the entertainment all wore some adornment in yellow, of ribbon, flowers or kerchief. There were several hundred who were served.

Presented with a Watch.

When the deputy assessors assembled at the court-house yesterday morning to make their returns, they were called into an adjoining room by Charles Tyler, chief deputy, who in a short speech, presented Assessor Quill with a fine gold watch and chain, and a charm of the Uniform Rank K. of P. Mr. Quill responded in an appropriate speech, and reciprocated by setting out a box of cigars.

More Evidence as to Efficiency.

Evidence that Indianapolis still has an efficient mail service still continues to accumulate. On April 10 Mayor Dennis mailed a postal card to "Mr. Johnson H. Ross, city." It was yesterday redelivered. It bears the postmark of "April 10, 10 A. M." Mr. Ross resides at No. 246 North Illinois street, and has lived in Indianapolis since 1849, being one of the best-known men in the city.
